BRAD McMILLAN — LIFE AFTER SPORTS + WHO REMAINS?

Identity · Resilience · Reputation · Purpose · Transition

ESSENTIAL QUESTION

If athletics disappeared tomorrow, what parts of you would remain?

THIS WEEK

Athletics may be an important part of your life.

It may have shaped:

- your schedule
- your friendships
- your identity
- your confidence
- your discipline
- your opportunities

- your reputation
- the way other people describe you

But no role lasts forever.

At some point, every athlete experiences change.

That change may come through:

- graduation
- injury
- a roster decision
- a new level of competition
- changing priorities
- work
- family
- a new opportunity
- or simply the natural end of competitive sports

This week is not about walking away from athletics.

It is about making sure athletics is one part of your identity — not your entire identity.

PART 1 · WHO AM I NOW?

Without overthinking it, write ten words or phrases that describe you.

Do NOT use only athletic words.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

6. _____

7. _____

8. _____

9. _____

10. _____

PART 2 · WHICH FIVE MATTER MOST?

Choose five.

_____

Evidence from my life:

_____

_____

IDENTITY 5

Word or phrase:

_____

Evidence from my life:

_____

_____

PART 3 · ATHLETE IS A ROLE — SKILLS TRAVEL

Choose experiences from athletics and translate them into skills that remain useful elsewhere.

EXPERIENCE 1

What happened?

_____

Skill it required:

_____

Where else could I use that skill?

_____

EXPERIENCE 2

What happened?

_____

Skill it required:

_____

Where else could I use that skill?

_____

_____

PART 4 · WHAT SPORTS GAVE ME

Something athletics taught me about discipline:

_____

Something athletics taught me about teamwork:

_____

Something athletics taught me about pressure:

_____

Something athletics taught me about failure:

_____

Something athletics taught me about preparation:

_____

Something athletics taught me about leadership:

_____

Something athletics taught me about myself:

_____

PART 5 · WHAT ATHLETICS CANNOT DECIDE FOR ME

Athletics can shape you.

It should not make every future decision for you.

A decision I will eventually need to make for myself:

_____

A value that matters to me outside sports:

_____

A career, industry or possibility I want to understand better:

_____

Something I want in my adult life that has nothing to do with competition:

_____

_____

PART 6 · A DIFFICULT CHAPTER

Choose a real setback.

Examples:

- injury
- being benched
- losing
- failure
- rejection
- role change
- conflict
- disappointment
- not making something
- losing confidence
- another difficult transition

What happened?

_____

Where could this story matter outside athletics?

_____

_____

PART 8 · REPUTATION

Your reputation is what other people learn to expect from you.

Today, I think people expect me to be:

_____

_____

One part of that reputation I want to keep:

_____

One part I want to change:

_____

In five years, I want people to describe me as:

_____

_____

What would I need to do consistently for that reputation to become true?

_____

_____

PART 9 · PURPOSE

Purpose is bigger than a job title.

Consider:

- Who do I want to help?
- What problems do I care about?
- What kind of person do I want to become?
- What kind of work matters to me?
- What kind of life do I want to build?
- What do I want people to be able to count on me for?

Something I care about:

_____

A part that may need to change:

_____

Why?

_____

A habit athletics gave me that will still matter:

_____

A relationship skill athletics helped build:

_____

A strength I can use in work or life:

_____

PART 17 · THE SCOREBOARD DISAPPEARS

Imagine nobody knows:

- your stats
- your team
- your position
- your ranking
- your highlights
- your awards

How would you want them to know you?

_____

_____

What would you want them to respect about you?

_____

_____

What would you want them to trust you with?

_____

_____

PART 18 · TEN YEARS FROM NOW

You do not need to predict your exact life.

Think about direction.

I want to be someone who:

_____

_____

I want my relationships to be:

_____

_____

I want my work to give me:

_____

_____

I want my money decisions to allow me to:

_____

_____

I want my reputation to be:

_____

_____

I want to still be learning:

_____

_____

PART 19 · MY DECISION TEAM

No one person needs to have every answer.

Identify people you could learn from in different parts of life.

CAREER / WORK

Person or type of person:

_____

MONEY

Person or type of person:

_____

EDUCATION

Person or type of person:

_____

LIFE / VALUES

NOW...

I think it means:

_____

_____

One part of my identity that is bigger than sports:

_____

One transferable skill I can now explain:

_____

One difficult chapter that shaped me:

_____

One reputation I want to build:

_____

One relationship I need to strengthen:

_____

One future possibility I want to explore:

_____

FUTURE READY™ PASSPORT EVIDENCE

Save:

ONE IDENTITY STATEMENT

_____

ONE TRANSFERABLE-SKILL STORY

_____

ONE DIFFICULT-CHAPTER STORY

_____

ONE LESSON FROM BRAD

_____

ONE REPUTATION STATEMENT

_____

ONE MINDSET COMMITMENT

_____

ONE PERSON I WANT ON MY DECISION TEAM

_____

CAPSTONE CONNECTION

Keep:

- one identity statement
- one setback
- one example of resilience
- one transferable skill from athletics
- one lesson from Brad
- one reputation you want to build
- one mindset commitment
- one relationship that matters
- one future possibility
- one answer to the question:

Who am I when the role I am known for is no longer the center of my life?

Your capstone should show more than what you did.

It should show who you are becoming.

WEEK 13 CLOSE

ATHLETICS HELPED ME BECOME...

_____

BUT ATHLETICS IS NOT THE ONLY THING THAT MAKES ME...

_____

WHEN MY ROLE CHANGES, I WILL STILL HAVE...

_____

PEOPLE CAN COUNT ON ME TO...

_____

THE REPUTATION I WANT TO BUILD IS...

_____

THE NEXT PART OF MY LIFE I WANT TO EXPLORE IS...

_____

THE ROLE CAN CHANGE. THE PERSON KEEPS GROWING.
